

SUTLEY CHANGES HIS PLEA

Lynching Case Has Abrupt Termination Tuesday Morning

MANSLAUGHTER VERDICT

Accepted by State and Prisoner
Will be Sentenced Later by Judge Nicholas.

Quincy Sutley, charged and on trial for first degree murder, this being one of the riot cases, changed his plea in Common Pleas court Tuesday morning after the case had progressed to the point of examination of state's witnesses, and entered a formal plea of guilty to the charge of manslaughter.

The court asked counsel for the state if this was acceptable to them and if they nolleed the charge of first degree murder.

Prosecutor Smythe addressed the court and said that the state was willing to accept such a plea in this case and that they were willing to accept a similar plea in the cases of the other defendants held on the same charge in connection with the July riots.

Judge Nicholas announced that the court would defer passing sentence on the defendant until later in the week, probably Thursday. He explained that he had been suffering from a lack of sleep for a week and did not feel at this time like passing sentence on the prisoner.

"In my judgment," said the court, "a man should be in the best mental and physical condition before passing finally upon the question of a man's liberty. A night's sleep will refresh me considerably and I will notify counsel for both sides so that they may be present in court."

"I have been working up to mid-night for the better part of a week and have been at my desk at 5 o'clock in the morning and I am beginning now to feel the effects."

There was considerable delay in opening court Tuesday morning, caused by the delay of the hallif in arriving with the jury. When Sheriff Legge did appear, he reported that Juror George Adrian, who was sent to the hospital last week with symptoms of the mumps, was again ill, this time seriously, being unable to leave his bed at the Sherwood.

As the jury had been formally dismissed, the court was powerless to issue an order for the care of the sick man and he now must be looked after by his relatives. Judge Nicholas said that this seemed heartless on the part of the county but that the court had no legal right to order him removed to the hospital and cared for at the expense of the county.

Dr. McClure, who is still attending the sick man, stated that there was no doubt now that the man was suffering from the mumps and the disease took a serious turn Tuesday morning when new symptoms developed.

Monday afternoon the patient developed a temperature of 104 1-2 and Tuesday morning it still registered 103 1-2 and the man was suffering considerably.

At noon the man was taken to St. Louisville and thence to his home where he will be placed in the care of the family physician. The man's age makes his case the more serious.

Monday Afternoon.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON
Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, has signed a bill making it legal to sterilize confirmed criminals and the hopelessly defective. The consent of the person to be operated on is not necessary.

MAY HAVE MET WITH FOUL PLAY

On the theory of the Columbus police that his son was the victim of a cruel murder, Frank Knerr, 122 South Cedar street, a B. and O. conductor, has employed detectives to work on the case and learn if possible the exact cause of the boy's death.

Mr. Knerr in conversation with the Advocate Tuesday said that there was much evidence that the boy was murdered and his body thrown from the train at the point where it was found in the Columbus yards.

As stated in the Advocate Saturday, Alva Knerr was last seen when he left home to see the parade here a week ago. He went to the circus that night and was seen by Newark people who knew him, standing under the Eleventh street bridge talking with two negro men. That was the last seen of him until his father identified his dead body in the morgue of a Columbus undertaker.

The police of that city declare that none of the wounds indicated that he had met death under the train or by falling from it. His scalp was almost entirely torn off and there were black marks on his neck believed to have been caused by an attempt to choke the victim.

The young man had only a small sum of money with him. He was well dressed however and the father thinks that the negroes may have thought that he was well supplied with money.

DREW HIS WAGES AND LEFT CITY. DESERTING WIFE

The police were asked Monday to locate a man whose name was given as Burgett, first name not given. His wife reported that he left home last Friday and had not been seen or heard of since. Officer Callan followed up a tip and learned that the man drew his wages from his employer up to Friday afternoon and left the city. He told some of his acquaintances that he would never come back. It is believed that he went to Massillon.

At noon the man was taken to St. Louisville and thence to his home where he will be placed in the care of the family physician. The man's age makes his case the more serious.

TARIFF MEASURE PASSED

Democrats of House Vote Solidly for the Free List Bill

REPUBLICANS GIVE AID

Twenty-Four Voted Aye—More Than 100 Amendments Ruled Out of Order.

Washington, May 9.—Nine hours of continuous pounding at the hands of the Republican minority of the house of representatives failed to make a single change in the first Democratic tariff bill placing on the free list agricultural implements, meats and many other articles. The bill, passed the house last night by a vote of 236 to 109, the Democrats voting solidly and mustering 24 Republicans with them.

This came after the Democrats had voted down or ruled out of order more than 100 amendments, and had demonstrated again that the Democratic majority was a compact and smoothly working machine for the enactment of legislation.

Minority Leader Mann threw amendment after amendment into the debate, ranging all the way from free rice to free lead and free pig iron, but those that were not ruled out by order were cheerfully voted down by an almost solid Democratic vote.

An attempt by Mr. Mann to recommend the bill to the committee on ways and means was tabled by the house. The Republicans who voted for the measure were Representatives Anderson, Davis, Lindbergh, Miller, Volstead and Stearnson of Minnesota, Anthony, Jackson, Madison and Muddock of Kansas, Hanna and Hegelson of North Dakota, Lenroot, Kopp, Morlette and Nelson of Wisconsin, La Follette and Warburton of Washington, Lafferty of Oregon, Kemp of California, Hubbard of Iowa, Morgan of Oklahoma, Norris of Nebraska and Roberts of Nevada.

The Republican fight to amend the bill began with an attempt to make the free admission of merchandise apply only to imports from countries that in turn admitted American products free. This was followed by efforts to have incorporated in the bill provisions that would force other countries to give up their discriminations against American meats, live cattle and flour, and to include provisions aimed at countries that impose restrictions on the export trade of potash and pulp wood.

All of these amendments were thrown out by Chairman Alexander and Chairman Hay, the two presiding officers of the day, as not permissible under the house rules. The progress of the bill demonstrated the efficacy of the new Democratic rules, one of which carefully restricts all amendments to revenue measures to those germane to the particular item under consideration.

The Republican leaders roundly denounced the Democrats for denying freedom of debate and amendment. Former Speaker Cannon declared:

LOCAL MAN INJURED AT MT. VERNON

(Special to Advocate.)
Mt. Vernon, May 9.—Harry L. McDaniels of Newark, a B and O brakeman, is in the hospital here with his right foot tragically crushed in an accident in the local B. and O. yards. McDaniels was in a car loaded with pig iron when a sudden stop made by the train threw the ends of the iron together with great force. His foot was caught between the ends and the bones badly crushed. An ambulance removed the man to the Mt. Vernon hospital where Dr. N. R. Eastman, the company surgeon at this point, removed many small particles of bone. He will probably be removed to his home in Newark within a few days.

THE DIAZ MANIFESTO.

Mexico City, May 9.—President Diaz's manifesto carefully translated, reads in part as follows:

"If the demands of the revolutionists that the president and vice president of the republic should resign in the midst of the present difficulties were to be allowed it would expose the nation to all contingencies and dangers of the new elections which, according to constitutional provisions, would have to be held at once, while the political passions are in effervescence and before order could be re-established throughout the republic."

The bill forbidding the reelection of the president and the vice president of the republic and the state governors has, with the moral support of the executive, already passed the chamber of deputies and will soon pass the senate.

"A new electoral law which seeks to render effective the popular suffrage in harmony with the requirements of our social medium and which eliminates so far as possible the interference of the political authorities in the elections has been framed and will soon be sent to congress, as will also a bill whereby the judicial functionaries will be held to stricter account, and another for the division of the large estates."

The president of the republic, who thus has the honor of addressing the Mexican people, at these solemn moments, will, let there be no doubt, retire from power when his conscience tells him that he can do so without giving over the country to anarchy, and he will then retire in the dignified manner which the nation has a right to expect and to which he himself is entitled as a ruler who may have made many mistakes, but who has also fought in defense of his country and has served her with loyal devotion.

The failure of the peace negotiations will, perhaps, entail a renewal and aggravation of the revolutionary activity. If, unfortunately, such should be the case the government on its side will redouble its efforts, relying on the loyalty of our heroic army to quell the rebellion, but in order to ward off promptly and efficaciously the dangers which threaten our social fabric and the nation's autonomy, the government needs the support of the people, their patriotism and their co-operating efforts.

It feels that it has that support, and, with it, is confident of saving the nation.

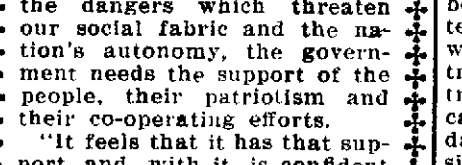

"PORFIRIO DIAZ."

JUAREZ ATTACKED BY REBELS

Five Persons on American Side Were Killed Dur- ing Fight

ARRANGING ARMISTICE

So That Peace Negotiations May Continue—Thousands in El Paso View Battle.

El Paso, May 9.—At 8 o'clock this morning after a series of desperate battles in the streets of Juarez in which the loss of life is said to have been great, the troops of Francisco Madero are now in control.

At that hour the federal guns had been silenced by the rebel marksmen and Navarro had practically abandoned the city. A few combatants over the country to anarchy, maintaining troops and they fought hard from behind barricades in the street. The general assault began at 4 o'clock this morning with the federal forces opening the first fires.

It is reported that Madero demanded the surrender of the city and sent two messages to Navarro with the insistent demand that he give up Juarez to prevent further bloodshed. The numbers of rebels who entered the city at about 3:00, shortly after the firing began Mrs. Josepha Gochla and her son were wounded by bullets in this city.

The United States troops were then ordered to clear everybody out of the territory for three blocks back of the river. It is reported that American Captain Lindefeld, who led the rebel attack last night, has been killed. Madero and his lieutenants say that yesterday's attack was not encouraged, in fact was contrary to orders. Madero was extremely angry when seen at his camp. The exact cause of yesterday's fighting is still in doubt, each side blaming the other for starting the attack.

El Paso, May 9.—Insubordination in the ranks of General Madero's army and a lust for the fight of which federal concessions apparently had deprived them, caused a fierce attack on Juarez which culminated last night in a careful retreat of the insurgents after a day of continuous skirmishing.

The 150 rebels who opened fire on the federalists not only captured some of the important outposts, but carried the fighting into Juarez. Failing to get reinforcements, they retired. The casualties of the insurgents and federalists are not known, but five persons on the American side of the line were killed and at least 12 injured. Thousands of people in El Paso dotted rooftops or lined the river banks in direct line of the fire. Col. Steever of the Fourth United States Cavalry, protested to both armies against the fire into American territory and it lessened considerably thereafter.

Nearly 1000 American troops were massed on the border, keeping the crowds back and ready to respond to any orders from Washington. Last night couriers were galloping back and forth in an effort to arrange an armistice so that peace negotiations may go on.

Gen. Francisco L. Madero Jr. is a sad and down-hearted man. His efforts to prevent a general attack were successful, but only after he had been bombarded with conflicting stories as to the actual cause of the conflict.

General Madero thinks remarks attributed to Colonel Tambour of the federal garrison in Juarez, taunting the insurgents, incensed them, and in a statement today he genuinely regrets the occurrence.

The fight lasted until dark and furnished many a thrilling spectacle as well as continuous terror for many Americans living along the river bank.

About a dozen insurgents were seen to emerge from the barren hills around Juarez early in the day. They skulked along through the shrubbery toward the federal outposts, firing repeatedly at a squad of federalists cooped up in an adobe house.

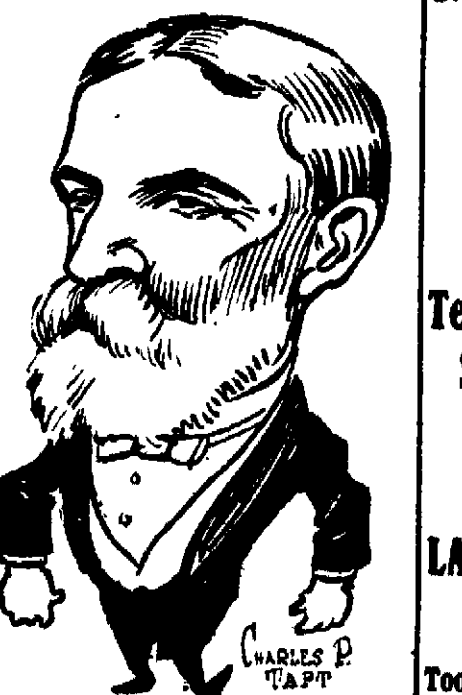

The version of the affair given at the Madero headquarters is that the federalists began the engagement. At any rate, the federalists soon left their adobe stronghold and fled, pursued by the insurgents. At the head of the insurgent band was a Canadian, W. H. McKenzie whose pink shirt was plainly visible as he pressed close to Juarez.

At the first few shots two federalists toppled over. Soon the federalists abandoned their trenches and the rebels fired intermittently for a few hours without advancing. At last, about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the federalists brought their artillery into action and heavy cannonading began.

The federalists gauged their fire well and not only shot shrapnel into the insurgent advance, but far into the outlying forces of the insurgent camp near Peace Grove, where the peace commissioners were to have met.

The insurgents, however, took advantage of the confusion and

MONEY MAD DEFAULTER CONFESSES

Teller of Cleveland Bank Stole Funds for Eight Years

LARGE AMOUNT MISSING

Took Currency From Packages Received From the U. S. Sub-treasury.

Cleveland, May 9.—After keeping up his nerve until he had been placed in a cell last night Julius H. Hopkins, confessed bank robber, suffered a complete collapse today. He is in a very serious condition in a local hospital with two deputy sheriffs guarding his room.

Cleveland, May 9.—Money mad Julius W. Hopkins, paying teller of the First National Bank, one of the most trusted of this big bank's staff of employees, was arrested last evening, after confessing to having defaulted to the extent of $114,850. He was placed in the county jail in default of bail.

The bank officials declare the bank will not suffer, as the loss is fully covered by a blanket guaranty policy of $250,000 in London Lloyd's. According to the bank officials, Hopkins took money from the packages of currency sent the bank from the treasury department at Washington in return for mutilated bills. He covered up the transactions until recently, when he was forced to fall back on his books to conceal the thefts. The default was then uncovered by the bank examiner.

"I went money mad," declared Hopkins, shortly after he was placed under arrest. He was the highest salaried paying teller in Cleveland, and had been with the bank since its organization. Six months ago his wife died, and he has a son in a sanitarium in North Carolina. The federal grand jury will act upon his case.

"I have done wrong and I am willing to pay the penalty," Hopkins said last night.

"The facts will be placed before the public officials," was the formal statement made by the bank, "for any such action as they may deem proper to take with reference to Mr. Hopkins."

His fortune has pursued Hopkins for the last two years. Within the last year and a half he has lost through death his mother, who lived in Geneva; his wife, his 8-year-old daughter and his sister.

For the past two months Hopkins has occupied bachelor apartments in the Six Hundred, one of the exclusive apartment houses of the East End. He has mingled little with his associates, although he would at times be seen in the recreation room of the Six Hundred. He seemed to be in poor health. About 15 months ago Hopkins organized the Cleveland Speed Indicator Company, which has grown rapidly and now employs 26 men. On account of this outside source of income his spending of money for an automobile and other things ordinarily beyond the means of a paying teller in his position was not commented upon by his intimates or his employers.

The company is not involved in Hopkins' troubles. The accused to (Continued on Page 9, Col. 3.)

Laxative Sent Free to Try

It may be taken for granted that there is no family of any size that goes very long without needing a laxative. If you don't know of a good laxative, or the laxative you are using is losing its effect, we want to call your attention to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of families are using successfully.

We have scores of letters from mothers and scores from prominent men saying they are using it, and giving it to their families, men like Mr. C. K. Smith of the Trust Building, House, Fine Bluff, Ark., and Mr. George B. Turner, a lawyer of Harlan, Ky. The thousands of mothers who use it themselves and give it to their children would take too much space to mention.

The reason they prefer Syrup Pepsin is that it is a mild, gentle laxative, one that does not grip, and is effective and yet so mild that babies can take it. Its tonic ingredients invigorate the body and strengthen the stomach and bowels, so that they can take food and digest it naturally. If you have been a victim of salts, pills and strong cathartics, you will discover them when you use Syrup Pepsin.

You can buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of any drugist, but before getting so you may want to try it free. Send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will promptly forward a free sample bottle. Then, being convinced, do as others are doing and buy in the regular way of your favorite druggist.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample, address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

ANOTHER ONE GOES TO THE FAST DIGGERS

Marion Found the Texas Twirler for Nine Safeties and Copped the Second Game.

(By C. E. GILLETTE)

Marion, May 9.—It was consistent pounding of the ball for clean hits that brought victory to the Diggers Monday afternoon at the park. Manager Lewis pitted himself against the giant battery of the Molders. Platter and Blue, with excellent pitching and some scrumptious fielding at his back, got away with a 6 to 2 win. The Diggers hit when hits were needed and made the most of the bingles they collected from the Newark twirler's offerings. Count Row went to waste.

Lewis went the entire route without much trouble. He had control, only issuing two passes and held the Molders to four scattered hits. The Newark batters kept him on the jump by continually rolling bunts or hitting bouncers in his direction. In his usual unexcitable manner, Joe handled them all with ease. In the second inning, Platter was a little wild and permitted five men to go to the first sack after he had hurled four wide ones. However, it was he who saved his team from being decorated with the whitewash brush. He rounded the pillows twice—the only Newark scores. The first circuit was made after he had drawn four wide ones from Lewis, and the second after solving a Lewis bender for two sacks.

It is strange how close the Molders stick to the sacks when once they are perched on them. In the two games they have played here there has been little pilfering attempted. Perhaps the visitors have been informed that Catcher Smith is a mighty pegger, not only to second but to the other sacks as well. The Diggers found Blue on the job when they attempted to take second a couple of times yesterday. A speedy runner should get away with a stolen base easily. However, Blue has a knack of getting the ball away fast.

Marion's first count came in the second round. Smith registered in this inning. He singled to left, took second on a grounder. Linderbeck hit to Prosser, was advanced to third when Kelley raised an infield fly and counted on Weller's single to left.

The Molders tied the score for a short time and was the result of a walk issued to Platter. He was sacrificed to second by Baggan. Made third when Newham pounded a grounder to Lallier, and crossed the plate when Platter punched a liner which hugged the left foul line.

In the third Meehan grounded out to Lallier. Colligan, the next man up, decided to break the tie and to do it successfully. Accurately he lifted the ball over the right garden wall for the second time during the Newark series. Run number three was added in the fourth. Linderbeck singled, stole second and went to third when Platter made a balk. Hummel was walked and later stole second. Blue whipped the ball to second, but the sphere could not be returned in time to prevent Lindy from landing another score by stealing home.

The second run came in the fifth. Platter lunched on one of Lewis' offerings and sent the ball sailing into the score board in left field. He stopped at second base.

Two two-baggers came in succession in the Diggers' half of the sixth. Smith and Linderbeck being the offenders. As a result Smith crossed the plate.

Smith's second hit for two sacks came in the eighth. Platter placed Linderbeck on first by hitting him. Hummel advanced the runners with a sacrifice, and both scored when Kelley singled. The Molders brought the play to a close by staging a double play. The score:

After Typhoid and Malaria

MR. C. J. SWANSON.

"Twenty years ago I was taken sick with Typhoid and Malaria fever, and for a time was at the point of death. As soon as I turned a little toward the better my physician prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and it was just what I needed to build me up. I have also found it excellent for weak lungs and rheumatism. I am now the age of seventy, and will always continue to use it." C. J. Swanson, 5140 Michigan ave., Chicago, Ill.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey not only serves to keep the bodily health at the highest notch of excellence, but in typhoid and malaria, especially, when the bodily functions are at their lowest ebb and death seems imminent, it is retained by the stomach when other agents are rejected, and as a food and stimulant sustains life until the crisis is passed. When convalescing after fever it is the greatest strength-giver and body builder known to science. It is a wonderful remedy in the prevention and cure of all lung, throat and stomach troubles, and all wasting and weakening conditions.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct $1.00 a large bottle. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

FRECKLES GONE

"Simple Remedy from W. A. Erman & Son Removed Them," Says Society Lady.

"The best skin specialists told me that nothing would remove my freckles and that I would carry them to my grave," said a well known society woman, "but I fooled them all with a new drug, called—double strength, that I bought at W. A. Erman & Son's, which cleared my skin and saved me a fine complexion."

The action of othine is really remarkable, for when applied at night many of the freckles disappear entirely by morning and the rest have begun to fade. An ounce is usually all that is needed, even for the worst case.

Be sure to ask W. A. Erman & Son for the double strength othine, as this is sold under a guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps?

No, never. It's foolish to fear a fancied evil when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and swamps. These are the malaria swamps that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C

SLEEP TIGHT.

There's nothing more refreshing than a good night's sleep in white, sweet-smelling sheets washed with Hewitt's Easy Task soap. It cleans and sterilizes bed linen, and how those little night marauders do detect it! Pure white and sweet. Not a strong, greasy soap, full of resin that makes clothes rot out before they wear out. Any grocer can tell you about Easy Task—a nickel everywhere.

OBITUARY

FUNERAL OF MRS. LULU HAYES.

The funeral of Mrs. Lulu Hayes, who died at her home in Maple avenue this city, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the body having been taken to that place Monday afternoon. Besides the husband, Albert Hayes, and two children and her father, she is survived by the following brothers and sisters: B. L. Lydick, of Newcomers-town, Harris, of Wheeling, D. L. Lydick, of Newark, Henry, Isaac, and William of Kansas, Mrs. C. J. Hawkins and Mrs. Thomas Hayes of Newark.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank our friends and neighbors, also the L. A. to B. of R. T. for their sympathy and beautiful floral offerings. We also desire to express our sincere thanks to Mr. Wilson Heisey for financial aid given and the B. & O. R. R. officials for kindness and assistance rendered during the search for our beloved son, Alva, whom we found after a weary search at Columbus, Ohio; also to Rev. Ward and choir for their words of comfort so beautifully expressed. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knerr and Children.

THRILLING STORY FREE.

There are three reasons why you should read "The Adventures of Black Peter," the great Sherlock Holmes detective story to be given free with copies of next Sunday's New York World. In the first place, it is a rattling good story; secondly, it is an extraordinarily great story; thirdly, it is one of the best detective narratives ever written by Doyle.

THE FORCE OF HABIT

By C. ROBBINS ANDREWS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

There was revolution in Mexico. General Alvarez was suspected by the president and closely watched. One day a visitor called at the general's headquarters.

"General," said the visitor, taking a manuscript package from his pocket, "knowing your reputation as a man of literary taste, a critic of the highest order."

"Cut that out," interrupted Alvarez. "I was once chief reader for a publishing house."

"I see. I have here a book of poems."

"Poems of any kind are not available. We have a whole room full of. Excuse me; the force of habit is great. I was thinking I was back in the editorial sanctum."

"But these poems of mine," continued the visitor, "I consider to be in that lighter vein which is the only kind of poetry now popular."

"Have you tried the Mexican Popular Magazine?"

"General," replied the visitor impressively after a pause, "if you have been an editor I have been a contributor. I'm on to that honeyed fashion of getting rid of 'an author.'"

The general settled back in his chair as one bracing himself to hear an author's reason why his experience is more valuable than other experiences. Those in the room went about their various duties. The visitor met the general's eye and winked at him. The latter caught on.

"These poems," continued the man with the manuscript, "were composed during a period of deep feeling. The spring was coming on and nature was awakening."

"You can wake me when you get through," yawned the general.

"One word more. Tearful April, with its clouds and thin gilded linings, had passed into June, and the roses were unfolding their delicate petals."

"The general closed his eyes.

"I seized my pen and yielding to the balmy—"

The general snored. The visitor looked about him and, seeing that the others in the room were becoming infected with the drowsiness that had fallen upon their chief, laid his manuscript on the table and silently withdrew.

As soon as the door had closed behind the author the general awoke.

"Has he gone?" he asked with a shudder.

"Yes, general."

"Taking up the manuscript Alvarez remarked:

"He has put his address on it, but I don't see any stamps for its return. However, here's a man stating that he will call tomorrow."

"That night Alvarez took the manuscript home with him. He was not interested in the literary form, or in the meter of the verse. Even the divine afflatus, if it was there, failed to move him. He puzzled for hours trying to find a key to a secret message. At last, by skipping all but every tenth word, he succeeded. He was invited to join the revolutionists, carrying with him the force under his command. For so doing he was to be appointed minister of war.

Having read all of the message he could find to read, and being satisfied that there was no more of it, he wrote his acceptance of the proposition and laid down his plan of operations by making a dot over the words required to make up his message. This done at daybreak, in the morning he went to bed. When the author came the next day for his manuscript the general said to him:

"I am very much obliged to you for your kind permission to read your beautiful poems. I have not been struck so forcibly with the poetic fervor of any manuscript in many years. In these verses is the very soul of poetry. But in—"

"Never mind that," said the author. "I have heard it a million times before. I know what you're coming to."

"Oh, I forgot," replied the general. "I am not now in the position of a publisher, you wish simply my honest individual literary opinion. Well, your poems are tommyrot. There is neither versification nor feeling nor thought in them. But I'll make a suggestion. They are so bad that if you can make them a little worse and start a few of them in some publication intended to be popular, with a curious story about the author, I'm not sure but you could get a big sum for them."

"Thank you, general, for your very practical advice."

The general threw the manuscript at the author, telling him to get out, and if he ever came again on such a matter he would have him arrested and his poetic ambition cut off by the garrote.

The young man caught the package and, departing, made his way to the commander of the insurgent army. Laying the pages on a table, the message of General Alvarez was quickly deciphered. A few days later at dawn the rebels moved on the government works and were joined by the troops of General Alvarez. The revolution was accomplished, and Alvarez was made minister of war, according to the agreement.

Later the deposed president asked the new one how he had managed to communicate with Alvarez. He was informed of the plan. The young man who accomplished it was made a cabinet minister.

A. P. HAINES RETURNS FROM ISLE OF PINES

There is something in the very name of the Isle of Pines that has a peculiar attraction, a something that smacks of the far Southland, tropical fruits, plants, glorious days full of sunshine, etc. And it has been this very attraction that has drawn so many of the people of Central Ohio to that land of promise.

Mr. Albert P. Haines and Mr. Frank Knauber, well known Newark men, were among those who were drawn to the island by the many inducements offered. They left Newark last October for the Isle, and have visited all the principal parts of the island. Most of the people from Central Ohio have formed a thriving colony near San Pedro where they have all secured valuable tracts of land from ten to twenty acres. Both Mr. Haines and Mr. Knauber are landholders. Mr. Haines owning a fine tract of about sixty acres, mostly black loam, which is excellent for fruit and garden truck. Mr. Knauber has about twenty acres of the same kind of land. Both these gentlemen expect their land to double in price within the next two years.

Mr. Haines is enthusiastic over the outlook for the future of the island. He says the conditions there are simply perfect, that the climate is the finest in the world, with cool breezes sweeping the island during the hottest weather, while in winter the climate is similar to that of Southern Florida and Cuba. Mr. Haines says that as soon as the government finishes the deep water docks now in course of construction, that the people on the island will greatly profit therefrom, as products from the south and the north can then be shipped in at a cost far below that of the present.

Mr. Haines says that any one desiring information regarding the conditions existing on the island can secure the same by calling on him, when he will be glad to answer any and all questions.

Creamed Asparagus on Toast. Take two bunches of fresh asparagus, boil in salted water for about ten minutes, then take it up and put into a saucepan with a pint of milk, one finely minced onion, a bunch of herbs and a minced lettuce leaf. Cook together for twenty minutes, take up the asparagus, and add to the mixture in the stewpan two tablespoonsful of butter and the same of flour, that has been fried together without browning. Stir until it boils, then add a gill of thick cream mixed with the yolks of three eggs. Cook until thick then run through a sieve, reheat. Place the asparagus on toasted bread, pour the sauce over it and serve at once.

Strawberry Dumplings. Mix together a pint of flour, a half teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful and a half of baking powder then rub in two heaping tablespoonsful of butter. Mix to a soft dough with milk and roll out half an inch thick. Cut in rounds the size of a saucer; on each 'ay six or eight berries. Draw the edges together and pinch firmly. Lay close together in a greased pan and steam for twenty-five minutes. Stand in the oven for a moment to slightly dry the tops, then serve with a hard sauce into which has been beaten as many pulped berries as can be added without curdling the mixture.

The Tariff Board has been investigating the tariff. Now a special commission of the National Tariff Commission Association has been created to investigate the Tariff Board. The proceedings will hardly be complete without the appointment of inquisitors to overhaul the special commission charged with inquisitorial functions.
Another blow was landed on Boss George B. Cox of Cincinnati when the general assembly enacted the Hudson-Bruce bill providing for the regulation of flop-house occupants. The governor approves it, for this is one of the bills included in the legislative program as was outlined in his speech before the joint caucus of Democrats recently. Under this measure it will be impossible for political bosses in the city to fill up lodging houses with tramps a few days before election, and then vote them. The bill provides drastic penalties for colonizing voters in lodging houses before election and amends the registration laws to make it impossible.
Should Be Interesting.
The inquiry to be made by the House of Representatives into the political machine of Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock is one in which the whole country will be interested. The resolution of inquiry directs the postoffice committee to determine how much political work is performed by postmasters and subordinate officers in the postoffices of the country, and by what authority they neglect their official duties and violate the civil service law. It has long been charged that through postoffice department patronage the postmaster general has established a machine for the control of delegates to the national conventions.

WHAT CONGRESS HAS ALREADY DONE
The records fail to disclose when any congress of recent years went about its legislative work with more precision, force and effectiveness than the Democratic national house of representatives, which convened in extraordinary session April 4th. The great mass of the people has approved every act of this body. The secret of this success is that the Democratic majority at Washington knows what the people want, and has set about its united duty of giving it to them.
Within three weeks from the opening of the session had placed its O. K. on: Champ Clark as speaker, and its quickly, quietly and unanimously organized committee and working organization of house managers; a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; a bill providing for the publication of campaign expenditures before as well as after elections; a Canadian reciprocity agreement; a free list on commodities of farm utilization; a bill to wipe out the iniquitous Payne-Aldrich wool schedule, and another, cutting the cotton rates, and a resolution, authorizing investigation of the management of those various departments of government wherein millions of dollars have been annually spent without so much as one Democratic peep at the methods employed in its distribution.

UNCLE WALT
The Poet Philosopher.
The children are swinging and dancing and singing, and playing with marbles and rolling their hoops; they're laughing and leaping, their festival keeping, they run past my cottage in jubilant troops. I look and I listen and briny tears glisten and roll down my whiskers and fall on my feet; the children are playing, and my thoughts are straying to days when I gambled, as gay and as fleet. Men say I've succeeded; all things that I needed I've managed to capture, with a lout to thank; I've lands and I've houses and horses and cowses, and wotors and diamonds and cash in the bank. My butler's imported, my daughters are courted by princes and nobles, with eyes on my stack; but 'outh is departed! I'm sitting, down learted, a stich in my side and a crick in my back! For fame I have striven, for wealth I have driven—I got them, and now I would give them away, for one hour of swinging and dancing and singing, as young and as blithe as the children at play?

One Man Shot in Strike Riot.
Oklahoma City, May 9.—One man was shot and four others were slightly injured here last night during a fight between special police employed by the Oklahoma Street Railway Company and sympathizers with striking employees. Tom Davis, a spectator, was shot through the hand. The company has refused to meet the demands of the car men for increased wages.

TARIFF MEASURE
clared that never in the history of congress had the right of representation on the floor of the house been so limited, and former Republican Leader Payne asserted that the Democrats would be discredited before the country for their arbitrary exercise of majority power.
After four or five hours the Republican fight took on the complexion of a filibuster. Once, denied a vote by the chairman, Mr. Mann intimated the bill would not pass in a hurry. Following that Republicans repeatedly demanded rising votes, but in the end Mr. Mann made no attempt to delay the final vote on the bill. In all, the Republican leader offered 33 amendments.
The Democrats steadfastly refused to cut off debate or lay themselves open to the charge of having passed the bill under a gag rule. The near approach was early last night when Mr. Underwood began to limit the time given to the debate of each section. The Republicans raised a cry but the Democrats shouted "Stick to it!" to Mr. Underwood.
Mr. Mann declared the Democrats had not put either rice or rice flour on the free list because they were products of the Southern states. Democratic Leader Underwood replied that it was because the Democrats did not know how much revenue it would cost the government.
"This does not complete our tariff legislation," said Mr. Underwood. "We introduced this bill to give the farmers cheaper agricultural implements and the city dwellers cheaper meats and bread. We could not go beyond that without endangering the revenues. We intend to take up, in proper order, all tariff rates and to adjust all of them."
Another list bill was introduced in the house. Its author is Representative Morse, a Wisconsin Republican insurgent. It would exempt from duty articles imported for use in the construction of pulp and paper mills and in the manufacture of pulp and paper.

FOOD IN SERMONS.
Feed the Dominie Right and the Sermons Are Brilliant.
A conscientious, hard-working and successful clergyman writes: "I am glad to bear testimony to the pleasure and increased measure of efficiency and health that have come to me from adopting Grape-Nuts food as one of my articles of diet."
"For several years I was much distressed during the early part of each day by indigestion. My breakfast seemed to turn sour and fail to digest. After dinner the headache and other symptoms following the breakfast would wear away, only to return, however, next morning."
"Having heard of Grape-Nuts food I finally concluded to give it a trial. I made my breakfasts of Grape-Nuts with cream, toast and Postum. The result was surprising in improved health and total absence of the distress that had, for so long a time, followed the morning meal."
"My digestion became more satisfactory, the headaches ceased, and the old feeling of energy returned. Since that time I have always had Grape-Nuts food on my breakfast table."
"I was delighted to find also, that whereas before I began to use Grape-Nuts food I was quite nervous and became easily worried in the work of preparing sermons and in study, a marked improvement in this respect resulted from the change in my diet."
"I am convinced Grape-Nuts food produced this result, and helped me to a sturdy condition of mental and physical strength."
"I have known of several persons who were formerly troubled as I was, and who have been helped as I have been, by the use of Grape-Nuts food, on my recommendation." Name given by Postum Company Battle Creek, Mich.

WE WORK
First, to earn money to buy the necessities of life. These we must have and it takes money to obtain them. Simple promises to pay will not satisfy the grocer, or the landlord. As people work they should make their money work and get five per cent. interest by leaving it with The Buckeye State Building & Loan Company, Rankin Building, 22 West Gay street, Columbus, Ohio. Assets $4,600,000. Write or call for booklets.

AN OUT OF THE ORDINARY SAFE AND PROFITABLE INVESTMENT
We say "out of the ordinary" because rarely is as sure and profitable an investment offered to the small investor. A 7% non-taxable investment, with the property behind it, that is behind this proposition, is usually sought and readily snapped up by large investors.
But—as the money to be raised by these means is to be used for the greater development of our present prosperous business, which we have brought to its present standard, (and do not desire to relinquish our control) we have decided that we would rather have the prestige of a great number of small holders, thereby securing their support and encouragement, in addition to their money, than to have the authorized stock and bond issue in a few hands.
The business is the manufacture of electric cranes and hoists—the modern carrying machinery, demanded of the mechanical engineers by the manufacturers and users of all heavy materials for handling weights of from one to one hundred and fifty tons.
We have a large plant now in full operation, within ten minutes of the heart of the city, established in 1880, located on the Pennsylvania and B. & O. R. R., and are supplying such Companies as the United States Steel Corporation (Gary, Indiana, plant), the General Electric Co., the Republic Iron & Steel Co., Youngstown, Ohio, the Pennsylvania R. R., the New York Central R. R., and hundreds of others. One Case Crane, operated by one man, loads on or unloads from cars or vessels any piece of machinery or other heavy weight, in a few minutes.
The securities offered, are a limited amount of 7% First Mortgage 20-year Gold Bonds, in denominations of $500.00, and a limited amount of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, non-taxable, and in shares of $100.00 each, with interest and dividends payable quarterly.
This is a safe investment.
First, because the assets of the Company are more than double the authorized bond issue.
Second, because the Company is doing a large, profitable and increasing business.
Third, because the profits from the sale of repair parts alone, are sufficient to pay the interest on the authorized bond issue.
Fourth, because the business of the Company has never been affected by business depressions.
Fifth, because the demand for electric cranes, manufactured by this Company, is increasing daily.
Write The Case Crane Company, Columbus, Ohio, for any additional information you may want.

INTERVENTION IN MEXICO COSTLY
Officials Say It Would Mean Army of 250,000 Men.
SUCH ACTION IS POSSIBLE.
President Taft Will Avoid This Course if He Can—Speculation as to What Roosevelt Would Have Done—Congressman Martin of Illinois Makes First Call on Hitchcock.
By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
Washington, May 9.—[Special.]—It has been estimated by the government officials that intervention in Mexico will mean an army of 250,000 men, and there is a belief that the country will seriously object to an army of that size. No one can foresee the end if there should be such intervention.
The president is aware that it will mean long and continued warfare with guerrilla bands and that it will be very difficult to establish a stable government under present conditions. The dictatorship of Diaz, the governing of a people with an iron hand, has created a condition which makes the establishment of a good government difficult.
While the president has the troops ready for intervention he does not want to take the important step unless it is absolutely necessary.
What Might Have Been.
People are wondering what Roosevelt would have done and would do in a similar position to that which President Taft finds himself in regard to Mexico. Many people think we would have been at war with some of the Mexicans long ago. It is recalled that when Colombia was protesting so violently against having Panama taken from that country there was a report that Colombian troops were moving toward the isthmus overland. Roosevelt gave orders for a brigade of troops to be at once sent to Panama to meet the Colombian forces. The order was not put in execution because Root and Moody, then members of his cabinet, objected.
An officer was sent to make an investigation as to whether the isthmus could be approached overland from the south, and his report was that such a movement was impossible. Then the brigade order was revoked.
A Remarkable Record.
Congressman Martin B. Madden of Chicago was strolling toward the postoffice department, and I asked him where he was bound. He told me he was going to the postoffice department.
"It is the first time I have ever been in the department," was the remarkable statement of the Illinois congressman. He has served six years in the house and is entering upon his fourth term. Then he went on with a still more remarkable statement: "I have never asked for an appointment for any one or had any federal patronage of any kind. I have seen Postmaster General Hitchcock but once, and that was on a trip down the Mississippi river, when we were examining the river, and President Taft introduced us."
The visit of Congressman Madden had peculiar interest because it was undertaken at the request of two Sisters of Charity who had been refused the use of the mails in raffling an automobile, the proceeds of which were to be devoted to charity. Of course it was impossible to get the ruling reversed, and the congressman knew it before he introduced the women at the department.
Pomerene Makes a Discovery.
"It looks to me as if these people are trying to get all they can in the matter of tariff," remarked Senator Pomerene at the close of a hearing in the finance committee room. The Ohio senator is not the first legislator who has made that discovery. The people who come to Washington to protest against changes of schedules are not usually here for the interest of the great public. They are looking after their own affairs.
Where He Learned to Fight.
Senator Nelson of Minnesota went through many hardships as a youngster. He was but a wee child when his parents brought him from Norway to this country, and in the early days in Wisconsin foreigners of any kind were not considered up to the standard of American born citizens.
"D—n little Norwegian," was an epithet of reproach cast upon little Nelson at school. "I used to fight every boy that called me that, big or little," remarked the Minnesota senator, "and I was in a fight most of the time when not in school."
In later days Nelson has been called the "little Norwegian giant," and no one ever heard him kick at that. It has been a good political slogan in times past.
Carter in Good Humor.
Congressman Carter of Oklahoma says in his biography that he is mixed Chickasaw and Cherokee; but, although he shows his Indian blood, he has nothing of the stoical and self-contained characteristics of the aborigine. He seems to find a lot of fun in the house, and his face is generally wreathed in smiles like a man who is well satisfied with himself and surroundings in spite of the fact that he spends more time than any one else listening to the tariff debates.

PALE AS A GHOST
This Young Woman Was Thought to Be Dying of Anemia.
After Two Years in Bed She Was Cured By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and Has Since Been Well.
Anemia is simply a lack of blood. It therefore follows that the correct treatment for anemia is one that increases the blood supply. That is really the only treatment that can possibly be successful. To restore the blood supply to its normal quantity and quality, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be recommended with confidence. First because they are known to have cured thousands of anemic people—the highest possible recommendation. Secondly they actually contain the ingredients that combine with the food and oxygen to make rich, red blood, without which no man, woman or growing boy or girl can be healthy.
Miss Carrie E. Hathaway, of North Houghton street, North Adams, Mass., was cured of anemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after recovery was pronounced hopeless by her doctor. The statement of her cure is told by her mother, Mrs. A. A. Hathaway.
"My daughter, Carrie, was confined to bed for two years suffering from anemia. She seemed to have no blood and was as pale as a ghost. She was thin and did not weigh more than 100 pounds, had no strength or ambition and couldn't sit up. Her appetite was poor and she had difficulty in breathing. No one expected her to get well and our minister, before going on his vacation, came to bid her good-bye as he did not think she would live until his return.
"We spent hundreds of dollars but the doctor seemed to be puzzled and could not help her. She had been sick for over two years before I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. The pills gave her quick relief and cured her after a fair trial. She has had no serious sickness since and weighs 170 pounds. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful remedy and I cannot say enough in praise of them."
A new edition of our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free on request to any one interested.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.
Pills sold in any other package or loose, by the dozen or hundred are not the same, whatever the clerk says.

B. & O. SHOPMEN

At Glenwood on Strike Over Long Piece-Work Dispute—More Men Leave Grimsby and Thompson Shops.

Pittsburg, May 9.—Shopmen employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company at Glenwood, numbering over 200, struck yesterday as the result of a long dispute over piece work and also the discharge of the master mechanic, which was followed by four foremen quitting last Saturday. This trouble is independent of the Pennsylvania shop men's strike.

The second week of the latter strike opened yesterday with 100 more men leaving the Grimsby shops and also 100 men quitting work at Thompson, on the Monongahela branch of the Pittsburg division. Nearly 200 men also quit work at the Pine Creek and Harris Island shops on the West Pennsylvania branch.

COURT NEWS

Suit for Damages.
In the Muskingum county courts Caroline J. Wiles has commenced a suit against the Ohio Electric railway for damages in the sum of $10,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained by having her back injured in a collision. She says that she was a passenger on one of the cars of the company on Oct. 10, 1910, when another car ran into the one in which she was seated, hurrying her across the car and severely injuring her. Mrs. Wiles says that the muscular structure of her back was injured in the vicinity of the spinal column. She contracted a bill for $250 for medical services and suffered great inconvenience and pain.

leave given to file reply instantly.

The case of Frederick Martin vs. The Ohio Electric Co., et al., is on trial to the court and jury. Plaintiff brings the suit asking to recover the sum of ten thousand dollars as damages for personal injuries received while in the employ of the defendant company, at a stone quarry near Richfield, Ohio, in 1907. Plaintiff claims that the company was guilty of negligence in not removing all dangerous and overhanging rock, that while he was working to the company a large piece of rock fell, striking him on the head, and permanently injuring him, injuring his head, spine, nervous system, and affecting his hearing.

POLICE COURT

Officer James Callan found a lost child on South Second street Monday morning and searched for some time to find the parents of the little one. The mother came across the officer on the street with the infant in tow and claimed it.

The foreigner who was held for stealing money from his landlady Sunday afternoon was given a fine of $5 and costs for disorderly conduct. The woman who was a victim of the theft refused to prosecute the case.

DIETZ TRIAL AT HAYWOOD

Haywood, Wis., May 9.—John F. Dietz lost his motion to dismiss the charge of murder against himself, his wife and son today. The judge ruled it was up to the jury to decide whether or not a murder had been committed. The judge also overruled Dietz's motion to take the case from the jury.

A gun expert testified that the bullet found in Harp's body showed it had struck some hard substance and had been deflected before striking Harp. Photographers exhibited pictures of the Dietz cabin which proved that the loop holes in the roof through which Dietz is said to have fired did not exist.

ACCIDENT ON OHIO ELECTRIC

Dayton, May 9.—A northbound train on the southern Ohio division of the Ohio Electric Railway Company jumped the track several miles south of this city shortly before midnight and nine passengers and the motorist were injured. The accident occurred while the car was running down a steep grade, the motorist losing control of the car. Motorist Edward Plimney had his left leg crushed to such an extent that it had to be amputated. None of the passengers were seriously injured.

King Alfonso, of Spain and his second son, Prince Jaime, are in delicate health. The king it is feared has developed tuberculosis. The prince is to be operated on at once for an impediment in his speech. His throat is also affected. He has never been strong.

Expensive Catarrh Doctoring Sensibly Avoided. Relief Certain and Cheap.

(Dayton, O., Journal)
Dr. Lewis Baker, an old and experienced practitioner, has this to say about treating catarrh of the head and throat.

"It is both a dangerous and disgusting disease to those of a sensitive nature; but if this simple, ordinary hygienic method is pursued a few weeks, anyone can readily and quickly banish the disease. Obtain of a druggist two ounces of antiseptic vilane powder; use a half-teaspoonful to a pint of warm water and sniff up into the nostrils a half dozen times, or more, until the passages are entirely cleared of all slimy matter. Gargle the throat with it, too. Then mix a balm by mixing a teaspoonful of the powder with an ounce of vaseline. Apply the balm to the nostrils twice daily for a few weeks.

"This treatment cleans, clears, soothes and heals the mucous membrane and enables one to breathe freely through the nose."

A Terrifying Hat.
When the French artist Benjamin Constant was traveling in Morocco he was invited by the sultan to present himself at court at Fez. The painter's first thought was in regard to his costume. "Cost" in Europe was one thing; in Morocco it was likely to prove something different. There was nothing to do, however, but to wear his ordinary evening clothes. He was ignorant of the fact that the Moors look upon black garments as very vulgar, and it was only after his arrival that he learned his mistake. The courtiers smiled openly; worst of all, they sneered. The painter was a man of lasty temper, and suddenly, incited by their insolence, he closed his opera hat and sprang it open in the faces of the jeering crowd. They scattered, yelling with surprise and fear. The sultan heard the noise and demanded the cause. After he had seen and examined the wonderful hat he gave this singular opinion:

"If I had lived a hundred years in your country and adopted all your other customs I could never have brought myself to set on my head so hideous a contrivance as that!"

Painfully Explicit.
The proprietor of a certain hotel in Europe has posted up the following warning to his clients:

"Gentlemen who come in this hotel not say anything about their meals they will be charged for, and if they should say beforehand that they are going out to breakfast or dinner, and if they say that they will have anything to eat they will be charged, or unless they bring it to the notice of the manager, and should they want not to say anything, they must order the manager for, and not any one else, and unless they bring it to the notice of the manager, they will be charged for the least things not, according to hotel rate. And no fuss will be allowed afterward about it, and nothing will be allowed to deduct anything out of it."

After this explicit information there surely could be no excuse for misunderstanding. Boston Globe.

BUTTER-KRUST

A Neat Trick

By JEROME WILLIAMSON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911

When railroads were first built the car was a string of stagecoaches joined together. We in America at the very beginning abandoned this form and opened the car from end to end. In Europe they still retain the stagecoach pattern. Their coaches are built in compartments, though those on through trains are connected by a passage at one side. Their way trains are the same as they were some eighty years ago.

I was traveling one day in a way train and locked in a compartment with one other passenger, a young woman. Soon after the train started she asked if she might smoke a cigarette. When a compartment is used for smoking over there they put up a notice to that effect. I felt pleased that she was a smoker herself, granted her permission at once and drew forth a cigar.

"You must first have a whiff with me," she said, "then you may smoke your cigar." She handed me an open box of cigarettes. "These are something very fine. Try one."

I accepted the offer. The woman turned away from me to put the box back in the satchel from which she had taken it and took a cigarette for herself while her back was toward me so that I couldn't see her doing it. I lighted mine and as soon as I began to smoke felt a delicious languor. I should have suspected that something was wrong and thrown the weed away, but I was enraptured and soon felt into a delicious trance.

The woman kept her eyes on me and presently asked me to hand her a novel she had left on the seat beside me. I couldn't move even a finger. She had evidently expected as much and had asked me to hand her the book to see if I were able to do so. As soon as she was satisfied that I was powerless she took off her dress and hat and threw them out of the window. There was a man's costume underneath the dress, and it was evident that the pretended woman was a man. He took a felt hat out of his bag and put it on, then, taking a paper out of his coat pocket, he put it in mine.

All this was done between two stations about ten miles apart, although the train went pretty slow. When we reached the second station the man got out of the train, leaving me still powerless. I was just as conscious of the situation as if I had not inhaled the cigarette. I surmised that the man was a criminal fleeing from justice and had put papers in my pocket that would cause his pursuers to think that I was the man they were looking for. Why he wished them to think so I fancied to be because they were hot on the pursuit and he wished to gain time by throwing them off the track.

The train seemed to be delayed in starting again. It appeared to me that it must be waiting for something. What was my horror to see several men come to the door of the compartment led by the man who had drugged me.

"That's the man," he said. The effect of the cigarette had passed off sufficiently to enable me to protest. But the man interrupted me. "I tell you," he said to the others, "he's the notorious Cartouche, who a day or two ago escaped the French police. I saw him in court once and knew him the moment he entered the train. If you don't believe me search him. He may have something that will identify him on his person."

My blood ran cold. I knew of Cartouche, who was under sentence of death. I was ordered out of the coach, but as I had not recovered the use of my limbs they were obliged to pull me out. They placed me on a baggage roller and went through my pockets. A letter addressed to James Cartouche was found on me. That note of the train pulled out and my arrest, plunging on the facts. I went off with it.

I was taken to the town jail. On the arrival of the next train police officers arrived. The moment they saw me they knew they had been tricked. I told them my story, and they knew by my description of my accuser that he was Cartouche himself. But the train on which they came had gone on and they were obliged to wait for the next to get on in the chase.

I considered myself lucky to escape as easily as I did for the police believed my story, saying that it was just like Cartouche who had played that and similar games before.

By a very singular coincidence I saw Cartouche again though some years later. I returned to America. On the steamer I found the stern fenced off with canvas. There was an opening between the canvas and an after cabin through which I could look into that portion of the deck which had been fenced off for the use of the steerage passengers. While looking through this aperture who should I see but a man whom I immediately recognized as Cartouche.

I was sorry I had seen him, for I felt it incumbent on me to prevent his landing in America. Had he been going the other way I should have held my peace. But as a criminal coming to my own country was duty as a citizen was to inform the immigrant commissioners of his identity. On reaching New York I told my story and the criminal was sent back to the port from which he sailed. What became of him after his return I don't know, but he was smart enough to cheat the gallows more than once, and he may have been as good as he used me.

The American Born Princess

My father, Prince Napoleon Lucien Charles, was in exile in the United States, and so it happened that I was born in America on the borders of the Delaware. I came into the world with the last sigh of the old year—that is to say, at midnight on the 31st of December, 1833. I have said that my father was in exile. When he was eleven years old his mother left Naples with her four children—two boys and two girls—and retired to the Chateau de Frohsdorf, taking the title of Comtesse de Lipona-Napoli transposed. There my father lived till he was joined by his uncle, the Emperor Napoleon's eldest brother, King Joseph of Spain, who on the fall of the first empire had retired to the United States and taken a lovely place near Bordentown, N. J., where he lived for eleven years as Count de Surville. It was at Bordentown that I entered this sorry world, my father having in 1831 married a Miss Carolina Georgina Fraser of Scotch origin, descending from the old family of Lovat.—Princess Caroline Murat's "Memoirs."

A Shock to Vanity.

"My wife gave me a birthday present that has a tendency to take the conceit out of any man who thinks he's good looking," said the man who shaves himself. "I confess that I have all along had a sort of sneaking idea that I had a little more than my share of manly beauty; that when it came to a showdown I was there with the goods. But not any more. I'm cured. And my wife's present did it. What was it? Why, simply one of those shaving glasses that magnify three times. The first time I used it I got a view of my face that rather startled me. Every blemish, every wild hair under the skin, every open pore, all the minute ugliness that isn't apparent to the naked eye—these things confronted me in all their unflattering repulsiveness. I used the glass just once and then accidentally dropped it down the air shaft to the basement below. I don't want to look like a monstrosity every time I shave myself."—New York Times.

The Addition.

"What makes you act so grumpy this morning, Dobkins?"

"Had an addition to my family."

"What? Why, you ought to be ashamed to be gloomy over that! To think that a normal human being should be angry because of the advent of such a cherub! Do you actually grudge a place in your happy home to an innocent creature fresh from heaven, bringing with it the very fragrance of those celestial realms? Do you greet with an unwelcome chill a small epitome of all purity and sweetness given into your keeping as a priceless though undeserved treasure by a too benevolent Providence? A lovely copy of what fancy feigns the angels to be like—a tiny shred of grace and glory snatched from the—"

"Say, that's very pretty, but do you know you're talking about my mother-in-law?"—New York Journal.

A Cow For a Life.

The Ober Gabelhorn is a peak notorious for the dangerous cornices which decorate its upper ridges. Of many accidents reported in connection with it perhaps the most remarkable, says G. D. Abraham in "Swiss Mountain Climbs," was the adventure which befell an amateur and his young guide. In passing along the dangerous final cornice it suddenly gave way under the amateur, and he went flying through space to apparent destruction. The guide at the other end of the rope seemed in hopeless plight, but with astounding presence of mind he swung himself down the opposite side of the ridge, thus saving two lives. The rope cut deep into the snow above, but held firm. The young guide's name was Ulrich Almer. His reward was a cow.

A Horticultural Puzzle.

"It's no use," sighs the nature wizard. "I may as well give up."

"What is bothering you?" we ask sympathetically.

"I got started a few years ago on a whim of mine. I took a head of cabbage and crossed it with a white potato and grew eyes on it; then I crossed that with a cornstalk and grew ears on it, then I crossed that with a squash and grew a neck on it; then I crossed that with a coconut and grew hair on it, but hanged if I can figure out what to do for a nose and mouth!"—St. Louis Republic.

Already Outside.

"In the days of the ancient drama," said the pedantic person, "performances were given in the open air."

"What a discouragement that must have been," replied Miss Cayenne, "to the man who insists on going out of the theater to get a breath of fresh air!"—Washington Star.

Poultry Pointer.

"I think," remarked the brindle faced hen, "that I'll go into business."

"What kind of business?" asked the innocent young rooster.

"Well," chuckled the old hen, "I may set up an egg plant!"—Chicago News.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Daddy Was Greedy Himself—Once

Bed Is the Only Place For Greedy Small Boys

THIS cozy arrangement that you have completed with Dinah, said daddy one evening, "is very businesslike, and I don't want to disturb it, but I want you to remember all the greedy stories I have told you whenever your stomach asks you to take more than your brain tells you is wise."

"All right, sir," said Jack, "but," he continued slyly, "I think maybe I could remember better if you told us another story on greedy children."

"Ha-ha," said daddy, "you caught me that time, and I will tell you one, and more than that, it happens to be about myself."

"Oh," said the children, wriggling in glee, "tell us every little bit about it."

"Well," began daddy, "when I was about Jack's age my specialty was crullers. My mother could make the finest in our part of the country, and every child in the neighborhood was jealous of my good luck. If I had half the business knack that Jack is showing I could have started a cruller store and soon have owned every jackknife and baseball and marble for miles around."

"One morning I snuffed crullers and carelessly walked into the kitchen just to see if the clock was right or something like that, and there on the table were six beautiful shiny brown bowknots of dough that mother had just taken out of the oven. My mouth began to water, and it seemed to me that I hadn't eaten a single meal for a week."

"May I have one, please?" I cried.

"No, not one of these," answered mother. "You see, I made a mistake in making them, and I put in too much butter. These are so rich that I'm afraid they would make you sick."

"My face must have shown how badly I felt, for she said: 'But never mind. I'm fixing up a new batch now, and they'll be ready in a very little while, and then you may have two instead of one. Go back in the yard again to your play.'"

"So I went, but I was too heartbroken to feel like playing and sat down under a tree near the chicken coop and thought over what a hard world this was for little boys and what I would do if I was a mother and could cook crullers."

"Pretty soon my mother came to the back door and, calling 'Chick, chick, chick,' threw away those six crullers and turned back into the kitchen. I could run faster than the chicks, and I got the crullers, and I ate all six."

"Oh, you bad boy!" cried Jack and Evelyn. "What happened?"

"I don't remember very much except bed and a doctor and medicine and a spanking, but I do remember that I never did that trick over again."

ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK FOR PUBLIC LIBRARY

The members of the Board of Trade committee on library are making a canvass of the city, obtaining subscriptions to the public library fund, hoping that they will receive an amount sufficient to place the library on a firm footing, or at least to take care of it until such time as the city council may make adequate appropriation.

The committee has started out in its campaign with the purpose of raising at least $1,000, and judging from indications they will have but very little trouble in securing this amount from the public spirited citizens of Newark. Already $150 has been raised and reported to the treasurer, and this without any solicitation on the part of the members of the committee. It is necessary to provide permanent assistants for the librarian, and many additional books are needed.

An Advocate reporter in conversation with Mrs. Rankin, the efficient librarian, asked her what had become of the money that had been raised by the women in the late library loan exhibit, and what they intended using it for.

The librarian said that in the neighborhood of $865 had been raised. Of this amount $60 had been put aside for a card catalogue of between five and six thousand books and a cabinet for the catalogues and $160 for assistants. Up to the present moment the librarian has been paying the assistants. A portion of the fund has been used for the purchase of shelving for books. The balance of the fund will be used in the purchase of books, principally reference books to assist the students at school, juvenile books and some books of fiction.

The committee on book selection consists of Mrs. Eliza Rankin, Mrs. C. W. Montgomery, Miss Anne Worrington and Miss Edith Mackey.

Messrs. Edmonson and Norton, Newark's well known book dealers, will bid on the books selected and they will be placed on "free" shelves for the benefit of the public.

Altogether the outlook for Newark's public library is very encouraging.

RAISING FUND FOR DEFENSE

Washington, May 9.—The American Federation of Labor today issued an appeal to union men for a fund of $500,000 to defend the McNamara brothers in their trials for dynamiting the Los Angeles Times. The appeal bitterly assails the Burns detective agency as a tool of capitalist, the capitalists who use it and the Los Angeles manufacturers and producers association.

PENSION BILL FOR SQUIRREL HUNTERS

The following bill, granting pensions to "Squirrel Hunters," introduced in the National House of Representatives by Congressman Pepper, was referred to the committee on Military Affairs:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that all officers and enlisted men who rendered services in the military organization of 1862, organized and responding to the call of Governor David Todd, for the purpose of defending Cincinnati from a threatened attack of the Confederate Army, shall be pensioned at the age of sixty-five years, fifteen at the age of sixty-five years, fifteen dollars per month at the age of sixty-eight years and over; and when any such soldier has died, or shall hereafter die, leaving a widow who married such soldier prior to July first, eighteen hundred and ninety, such widow shall, upon proper proof of said husband's death, be pensioned in like manner as widows of deceased soldiers are now granted pensions."

FIRST SNAKE STORY OF THE SEASON

A P. Teuscher, Wm. Lee and George Schider killed two blue racers early Wednesday morning while hunting mushrooms south of this city. One of the snakes measured six feet and two inches, while the other was a little over four feet in length.

Mr. Teuscher saw the reptiles first and running after his companions who were some distance in advance, requested them to hurry and return as "there was a snake back there which surely fifteen feet long." He appeared disappointed when it did not come up to that measurement, but soothed himself with the remark that when he came near stepping on it he thought it was a box constructor that had escaped from some circus.

WRECKED THE WAGON.

A horse attached to a delivery wagon belonging to Collins and Glausinger, grocers on Maple avenue, while standing in front of Miller's meat market on Maple avenue this morning, became frightened and ran away. The horse dashed madly up Second street, the wagon striking a water plug near the Auditorium was badly wrecked. The horse was caught after running a short distance.

Where a King's Clothes Were Kept.

St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe is a conspicuous waymark in Queen Victoria street and derives a grotesque distinguishing title from former proximity to the king's great wardrobe. This was originally the town mansion of Sir John Beauchamp and purchased from his executors by Edward III. for the keepers of the king's apparel. "There were kept," says Fuller, "the ancient clothes of our English kings which they wore on great festivals." Shakespeare in his will left to his favorite daughter, Susannah, the Warwickshire doctor's wife, a house near the wardrobe, "wherein one John Robinson dwelleth." The present Church of St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe was rebuilt by Wren after the great fire and became the city center of the evangelical revival under William Romaine.—Westminster Gazette.

A Challenge Trollope Declined.

The late George Smith, the English publisher, tells in his reminiscences how Anthony Trollope when offered £2,000 for a serial stood up for another £1,000 and finally suggested a toss for the amount in dispute. "I asked him if he wished to ruin me and said that if my banker heard of my tossing authors for their copyright he would certainly close my account. We ultimately came to an agreement on my terms, which were sufficiently liberal. But I felt uncomfortable; I felt mean; I had refused a challenge. To relieve my mind I said: 'Now, that is settled. If you will come over the way to my club, where we can have a little room to ourselves for five minutes, I will toss you for £1,000 with pleasure.' Mr. Trollope did not accept the offer."

A Competent School Official.

There was a quarrel among the school board men once in an Essex town, and an official from London was sent down to settle it. The official gathered the board about him. He said he would hear the chairman first. "What, Mr. Chairman," he began, "was the cause of this quarrel?"

"Well, ye see, sir," said the chairman, "we had an argument over spelling, and I wrote to—"

"You're a liar!" broke in another board man. "You can't write!"

AMATEURS PLAY 12-INNING GAME

The city amateur teams played a fast 12-inning game yesterday under the names of the Cubs and the Giants, the score at the close of the carnage being a tie, 3 to 3. Everything was murdered, the queen's English, baseball rules and precedents and the ball itself. The batteries were McClusky and Toothman for the Cubs and Goff and Heckley for the Giants. The Cubs got five hits off Goff and the Giants three off McClusky. No casualties are reported on either side.

FLY TIME TIPS.

Keep the flies out of dwellings. Get screens for doors and windows. Keep screen over articles of food. Don't let flies get near the pantry, kitchen or dining room.

Be doubly careful about keeping flies out of the sick room. They are likely not only to bring complications of new diseases, but to carry the invalid's disease to many others.

There is more health in a house well screened than in many a doctor's visit.

We Give The Reasons

why we draw such wonderful crowds and why people who know, concede to us the palm for shoe business and shoe values. First we handle shoes the makers put quality in and are not afraid to brand with their name. Second, we guarantee our shoes without any hesitation and make them good. Third, our unlimited buying capacity affiliated as we are with the largest shoe buyers of the world enables to undersell everybody, quality considered and give more value for every penny than is possible for any one else to do.

THE SPRING FESTIVAL IS DRAWING NEAR

Will Be Held at the Baptist Church at Granville, May 18-19—News of the Village.

Granville, May 9.—The music loving people of Newark and Granville should bear in mind that the Engwerson Choral society will present its annual Spring Festival on Thursday and Friday, May 18 and 19, in the Baptist church, Granville. The musical director is Carl Paige Wood. The soloists are Elizabeth Rathwell-Wolf, soprano; Irene Armstone, soprano; Louise Barnolt, contralto; George Harris, Jr., tenor; Wilmet Goodwin, baritone; Walter Bentley Ball, baritone; Emil Stumer, violinist; Miss Rose, soprano; Miss Chrysler, mezzo soprano; Mr. Babb, bass; Mr. Eschmann, pianist; Miss Benedict, organist. The St. Paul Symphony Orchestra of fifty players, Walter Henry Rathwell, conductor, will be the great attraction of the festival. A large number of Newark people will attend this festival, the concerts being held Thursday evening, Friday matinee and Friday evening.

The approach of the commencement season is marked by the usual sane protests against fuss and feathers and the expenditure of large sums of money for gowns and other accessories. These protests have had some salutary effect in the past, and it is to be hoped that they will continue to eliminate the spectacular. The commencement season is one of pleasure and congratulation, and that is the reason why a few who can afford extravagance of dress should not selfishly indulge in them. They should freely share the joy of graduation with all their classmates. This can be accomplished by simplicity of attire and the absence of those showy features which needlessly tax the individual purse and emphasize the differences, to the distress of some. Thus the commencement season, marking the end of an association for a number of years, will be something to be recalled with pleasure by all.

Mrs. G. L. Farley had the misfortune to meet with very painful injuries at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. B. Richards, east of town, Monday evening. She had started down a flight of stairs when she slipped and fell headlong to the floor below. Fortunately no bones were broken, and she escaped with a number of bad bruises, which although very painful are not of a serious nature.

Charles L. Owens, '85, assistant curator of archaeology in the Field Museum, Chicago, has been enjoying a visit with friends in the village.

Word has been received here that Miss Elizabeth Spencer, ex-'10, was married on Tuesday, May 2 at her home in Dayton, O., to Mr. Carl Rife.

The public schools of Granville will finish the winter term's work early in June, commencement being held on Thursday evening, June 9, after which will come the long looked for summer vacation. The heaviest part of the year's work is done during the winter term, the work being much lighter in the fall and spring terms. The overworked teachers and pupils look forward to the summer vacation as a time to recuperate.

Next Sunday will be Mothers' Day, and it will be fittingly observed in Granville. From thousands of pupils the sweetness of the virtue of the self-sacrifice and denial of motherhood will be proclaimed. Mothers' Day was founded five years ago by Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia. It was at once adopted everywhere because its sentiment found universal favor. It is proposed to make the celebration of the day world-wide.

The many friends of Mrs. David Davis will regret to learn that she has been quite sick for some time at her home in Linden Place.

No clue as yet has been obtained as to the identity of the burglars who robbed the shoe store of Mr. Lowery

Saturday night. The mystery is how the thieves gained admittance to the store. There is no possible way to enter the store other than through the front door and it is thought that some one may have a key. However, the lock has been changed and all precautions have been taken to prevent another visit from the light fingered gentry.

Miss Bessie King of the Sharon Valley visited Mrs. Philip Phillips the latter part of last week.

The brand of weather we had Tuesday morning is ideal for mushrooms, and many local lovers of the dainty fungi had the fever. The mushrooms are shooting up very rapidly and no doubt many feasts will be enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Morrow made a short visit with friends in Johnstown.

Saved Child from Death. "After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." A GREAT ORATOR AND REFORMER

Our people are to have a great treat in eloquence and social science in an address on Thursday evening, May 11, in the Second Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock, by Rev. Isaac J. Lansing, D. D., the new corresponding secretary of the International Reform Bureau, who takes the place of Rev. A. S. Gregg.
Dr. Lansing is touring Ohio, and speaking at Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and other cities, and we are favored in getting a date en route. According to many testimonials of Y. M. C. A. secretaries and preachers, and Sunday school workers, Dr. Lansing is one of the greatest of American orators, and he is also a social engineer who comes with expert advice to tell our people how to make this a better town, how to censor the shows, enforce the laws and secure better ones against alcohol, white slavery, gambling and Sabbath desecration. His theme will be "The Moral Equivalent of War." Apart from the interest of the subject, it will be a great privilege to see and hear one of the greatest men of the land.

3-Grain Tablet Makes Flesh

Any one wishing to add to their weight, improve their color, and restore a normal condition of the stomach and nerves, should adopt the wonderfully successful treatment known to physicians and druggists as "3-grain hypo-nutrient tablets," put up in a seal-tight package with full directions for home use. Red lips, pink cheeks, and 10 to 20 pounds increase in weight are not uncommon results from several months' usage. Ask your physician or a well-stocked druggist for them.

vantage of the river bank and used it for protection, as the federals had been ordered not to shoot into the river. They came as far as the Archison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway bridge, which joins Juarez and El Paso, driving the federals back into town and taking possession of the custom houses.

Carrying the fight into Juarez the rebels entered the town and for four hours kept up continuous fire. Insurrecto reinforcements reached the bridge later in the afternoon, but did not fire. They withdrew at night, under orders from their chiefs.

Not a few Americans were among those who entered Juarez. The first person killed on the American side of the line was Antonio Garcia, who was standing by the side of the Associated Press correspondent, about 200 yards from the advancing insurgents across the river.

A woman sitting on a porch several blocks within the city, received a bullet in her wrist and another in her abdomen.

About 6 o'clock last night two unknown Americans were killed near the Santa Fe bridge. The name of one is supposed to be Camp and his home is said to have been in Nebraska, while the other had on his person a memorandum reading "R. H. Ferguson, Troop E, Third Cavalry, San Francisco."

Glen Chesman of Shreveport, La., Mrs. Joseph Moorehead, Edmund Heaton and Luis Villalobos of El Paso were among those wounded, but not fatally.

In the main insurrecto camp confusion reigned. Orders were given for a general attack but they were countermanded. It was argued by some of the chiefs that since a small detachment had made such progress it was the duty of the rest of the army to reinforce them.

General Madero wavered in his decision but finally decided to stand by his promise not to attack the city.

Flags of truce suffered greatly during the day, an insurrecto who bore one being shot from his horse. Those who were trying to persuade General Madero to make a general attack, it is said, reported that the federals had fired on a truce bearer, but this has not been confirmed.

Last night an automobile bearing a flag of truce started from the Madero headquarters for Juarez. General Navarro was willing during the day at any hour to grant an armistice, but the insurrectos ignored all efforts in that direction.

At noon General Navarro announced that Juarez had not surrendered. Its final fall, however, is only a matter of hours. The federals hold the jail and customs house and a church in the center of the city, but the rebels through the streets in every part of the city.

The final exodus of non-combatants began with the renewal of fighting this morning and all were allowed to cross the international bridge into El Paso, but no soldiers, wounded or sound were allowed to pass.

San Diego, May 9.—The Mexican rebels today attacked Tia Juana at 4:15 this morning and at 7 o'clock it was reported they had captured the town. Reports say 50 were killed and many wounded. Five federal soldiers crossed the border today and surrendered to the United States officials.

Experience may be a good teacher, but it is also the scapegoat of many a man's mistakes.

ler had frequently spoken of late of retiring from the bank and devoting all his time to the company.
Hopkins was arrested shortly after he had returned to his apartments by Deputy United States Marshal Palmer. The defection was detected by Bank Examiner Williams, who was making his regular inspection of the First National.

"I did not come here for the purpose of arresting Hopkins," said Williams last night. "I have been here for two weeks examining different banks. I discovered the shortage and then Hopkins, when confronted, made a confession to the officials of the bank. We were notified and the warrant for his arrest was issued."

The embezzlement, according to the bank examiner, was committed in most part through the return of mutilated currency from the First National to Washington, and by failing to make an record of the returned genuine currency when it arrived. The peculations extended back for a period of eight years while Hopkins admitted to Vice President Woodworth, of the bank, that his shortage amounts to $114,850, the warrant that caused his arrest charges him with the embezzlement of $10,000.

Hopkins has not engaged an attorney. He says he is ready to take his medicine without protest.

"Did you ever handle millions of dollars?" "If you did you might have some idea of how I felt," said the accused teller. In the jail, "I went money mad. I saw a chance to make a fortune for myself, but I had no capital of my own. It wasn't strange, was it, that I should take some of the wealth that I handled every day? If this had come 90 days later I could have made good."

"Now that I have done wrong, I'm not going to beg off. I am going to take whatever is coming to me like a man. I shall tell everything and shall not attempt to hide a fact."

His face was white. His lips were pressed tightly together; around a cigar burned to a stub. He clasped

GRAY HAIR WILL MAKE YOU LOOK OLD

Use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and Your Gray Hair Will Quickly Vanish.

Gray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said as to its beauty will affect the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honored remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients which makes a delightful dressing for the hair, and which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out and makes it beautiful.

All druggists are authorized to refund the money if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Just by the Way

"YOU can't be happy," observes the Boarding House Philosopher. "One of my friends feels bad because his wife wouldn't speak to him when he got home last night, another is hurt because his did."

The Only Reason.

Clouded. The sun shines and no clouds are in the sky. A blaring quality is in the air. The lake so blue and quiet, over there. Knows, now at last that winter has gone by. And gleams with springtime blueness. Finding that life is sweeter and the world fair, and started to prepare a merry lot of mirth and gaiety.

And then—I heard that you were suffering. Somewhere, apart from me. And then the day was dull and dreary, and the clouds came creeping. Across the sun. And there is naught to sing—I cannot write a witty verse, nor gay. While somewhere in this world you sit aweeping."

A Modern Menace. "How did the aeroplanist get that trouble with his lungs?" "Inhaling wireless messages."

No Excuse. "Why do you smoke cigars?" "Why not? Robert Louis Stevenson smoked them!" "Yes—but he went and lived on the Island of Samoa while he did it."

Brute.

Two Birds. "I introduced Mr. Hottare to young Boarsum last night."

"That's a mean trick, to introduce any poor fellow to Boarsum."

"Huh! I guess you don't know Hottare."

Couldn't Respond. "I smiled at him and he never moved a muscle of his face."

"Forgive him. He's the man in the orchestra that the chorus girls grin at."

Suggestions. Cats don't give free concerts—they charge so much purr.

Suspect a woman with a sense of humor or a man who weeps.

The funniest thing is a married man paying money to hear a lecture.

Wife—Darling, I cooked this dinner all by my own self!

Hubby—Darling, I owe the cook an apology for the mental injustice I've been doing her.

How It's Doped Out. "Their marriage was a real surprise to everybody, wasn't it?" "Yes, but to his friends—not to hers."

The Beauty of Eye Glasses

There was a time when any kind of fitting—in any frame—had to do. That time is past. There is beauty as well as utility in the perfect eye-glasses we have in stock. As to the lenses, we will make them for you, just exactly right, and the eye-glass mountings—we have such an immense stock, in so many shapes and styles, that we can fit about any nose securely. Look at our window display of eye-glasses and bear in mind that we have great stocks of these goods, and the appliances and machinery to get the lenses just right for your eyes.

ous trials, and stated that strangulation was the cause of death. Cross-examined by James: A swollen tongue indicated that strangulation was the cause of death. Did not know of anything else but "black tongue" diphtheria that would cause a swollen tongue.

Dr. J. G. Shiner, examined by Smythe: Described the shooting of Howard, having seen the shot fired. Described Howard's wound and stated that he was placed in Shiner's auto and taken to the Newark Sanitarium, where he died. Told of seeing Etherington's body at Second street and South Park Place. Described the wounds. Told of the autopsy performed by Drs. Barnes and Shiner. He further described the wounds, black eyes, broken nose, broken teeth, cut lips, cuts and the bruises on head, face and shoulders. No fracture of the skull. Death was caused by strangulation.

Cross-examined by James: Black tongue diphtheria would have produced a foul odor from the mouth, which was not present. Autopsy continued from 11:30 until after midnight.

Re-direct by Smythe: Our examination would have revealed black tongue diphtheria if it had existed.

Lemuel Smith, examined by Miller: Was near the park and ball ground. Saw Howard hit Etherington with black jack and saw the detective shoot Howard.

Cross-examined by James: Did not see Sutley near the Last Chance.

Robert Francis, patrol wagon driver, described the run to the Last Chance and the return trip to the city, the dramatic drive through the crowd at Third and West Main Sts.

Cross-examined by James: Did not see Quincy Sutley about the Last Chance or the county jail.

Patrolman Charles Burke, examined by Miller: Told of the drive to the Last Chance saloon, the arrest of Etherington, but when asked what was said at the time, defendant's counsel objected, and the state held that conversations were competent testimony and referred to the decision of the circuit court in the Watha case. Mr. Smythe said the evidence must have been proper or that court would have ruled against it. The court called for the circuit court decision and read extracts from it. He overruled the defendant's objection. The witness told of keeping the crowd from climbing into the wagon at Third and Main streets. Told of Joe Bush trying to intercept Etherington.

Cross-examined by James: Did not see Sutley at the Last Chance or in the crowd at the county jail in the afternoon.

Joseph Moser was called to the stand, but before he had completed his testimony a recess was announced and after court had again convened, Judge Nicholas announced that for prudential reasons the court did not think it best to take further testimony at the time and announced an adjournment until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Assistant Prosecutor Miller

Will Hunt Mushrooms Attorney William H. Miller H. Miller who is prosecuting the riot cases as Prosecutor Smythe's assistant, is a student of Nature. He became interested while at Mt. Vernon on the Bolton case, in a white robin which has made its home there for several seasons.

Now his interest has turned to fungi, more particularly the succulent mushroom. He has planned a trip into the wilds of Licking county to make a close-to-nature study of this edible fungi and has engaged the famous nature-expert and snake-hunter, Henry C. Cochran, who follows farming, and news-writing as a side line, to superintend his education along these lines and the advance on the mushroom beds will be made within the next day or two.

Senator Cochran advised Mr. Miller that the best time to gather mushrooms was right after a warm spring rain. This came as a godsend Tuesday morning and the trip will probably be made Wednesday.

'CASCARETS' END ALL THE MISERABLE DAYS

A Ten-Cent Box Insures You Against a Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation or a Bad Stomach for a Long Time.

Primitive men did not need Cascarets. They lived outdoors, ate plenty of fruit, and all of their food was coarse. We modern people are different. We exercise too little, eat little fruit, and our food is too fine, too rich.

We can't have the bowels clogged up and keep well. It means that the food retained there decays. The decay creates poisons. And those poisons are sucked into the blood through the very ducts intended to suck in the nutriment. So we must make our choice. We must live, to an extent, like the primitive man, else we must eat Cascarets.

Cascarets do what the right food would do, what plenty of exercise does. The effect is as natural from one as the other. The question is one of convenience. If you choose Cascarets, take them as you take food, not in large doses rarely, but a tablet at a time. That is the way to keep well. Get a 10-cent box now.

WIRE CUT FROM MACHINE AT THE EVERETT PLANT

Young Man Arrested on Suspicion Denies That He Is Guilty Of the Theft.

Charged with knowledge of the theft of a large quantity of wire, said to have been cut from an electrical machine at the plant of the American Bottle Company, Clyde Buckingham, age 18, whose father is employed at the plant, was taken into custody this morning by Patrolman Charles Burke.

The claim was made to the police that the wire was cut from a valuable electrical machine at the plant and that it will require an expenditure of $500 to repair the damage. Young Buckingham denies that he is guilty of the theft and also that he has any knowledge of the damage to the machine. Although the officer found the wire in a sack at the time of the arrest, the lad also denies that he took it. He says he found the bag and its contents. The police will continue the investigation.

POPULAR SONGS.

A prominent music publisher once said "the best way to judge of a song's popularity is by the number of parodies written on it." In the last twenty-five years there have been put on the market numerous imitations of Hewitt's Easy Task soap—the original white laundry soap. If a soap is worth imitating, it certainly is worth trying.

Hewitt's Easy Task soap has "made good" in countless homes because it really does what others try to do.

SNAKE'S BITE

May Prove Fatal to Disciple of the "True Followers" Who Is Now Facing Death.

Hugoton, Kan., May 9. — G. W. Huffman, of Coldwater, Okla., is fighting desperately against death from a snake bite received in his attempt to demonstrate the faith of the "True Followers," a cult composed of two score of farmers in this vicinity known as "Snake Eaters."

Coming to town Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Z. K. Osteen, Huffman saw a rattlesnake in the road, seized it by the throat and handed it to Mrs. Osteen, who, to demonstrate her faith to her husband, a backslider from the cult, allowed it to wind itself around her neck. Osteen, however, warned her and Huffman attempted to take the snake from her to demonstrate his faith, whereupon the rattler, resenting his interference, sank its fangs into the back of his hand. He was hurriedly brought to a physician here.

How the Brush Is Built

Today's Talk on "Brush Motor Cooler"

$450.00

Last week we explained the advantage and superiority of the "BRUSH MOTOR." The following is a brief statement, showing how the Brush Motor is kept in perfect condition by THE BRISCOE HONEYCOMB RADIATOR on the Thermo-Syphon system. This is positively the only scientific cooling system, as it operates in proportion to the heat of the motor instead of the speed. It eliminates the pump, which is so frequently a source of trouble that some designers have attempted air cooling, which, as a rule, is a failure, introducing more complications than it eliminates.
